Valpo Shelter Begins Transition to Nonprofit to Ensure Long-Term Impact

[Cullman, AL] – Valpo Shelter, a passion project dedicated to helping those in need, is taking a significant step toward sustainability by transitioning into a nonprofit organization. This transformation will ensure that the shelter's mission endures for years to come, providing critical support to individuals facing homelessness in our community.

“Our mission has always been to provide education, resources, and hope to those in need,” said John Marx, Founder of Valpo Shelter. “By establishing Valpo Shelter as a nonprofit, we can build a strong foundation that allows us to expand our reach and impact after my passing. That Valpo Shelter will continue to always be my ‘passion project.’”

As part of this transition, we are working diligently to update our website with the latest information and resources required for this transition to go from a passion project to a nonprofit. This is our first step toward creating a more structured and sustainable future for Valpo Shelter.

To guide and support this mission, we are seeking dedicated board members. Our ideal candidate is a veteran who has experienced homelessness and successfully overcome it, as their unique perspective would be invaluable in shaping our initiatives. However, we welcome applications from anyone passionate about making a difference.

In addition to establishing a strong leadership team, we are actively working on filing the necessary documents to gain official nonprofit status. This designation will allow us to expand our reach, increase funding opportunities, and provide more comprehensive support to those in need.

We are also seeking individual and corporate sponsors who want to invest in their community by supporting Valpo Shelter’s mission. By partnering with us, sponsors can make a lasting impact on the lives of those striving to rebuild their futures. We will be allowing these sponsors to be able to have an entire site, fed from the main Valpo Shelter site to be specifically run for their city/state or county.
